Bids are sought for sale of sewer bonds

The Madison County government today called for sealed bids on purchase of a $5 million ad valorem (general obligation) bond issue to finance sanitary sewers in Special Service Area One, a large territory that includes Pontoon Beach, Mitchell and other neighborhoods in Chouteau, Nameoki and Venice Townships.

The 15-year bonds are to be dated Sept. 1, 1976, and the bids are to be received until 4:30 p.m. Tuesday, Aug. 17. Principal is to be retired in amounts ranging from $175,000 in 1978 to $300,000 in 1985 and $550,000 in 1992.

Areas Two and Three at State

Park Place and East Madison-Eagle Park Acres are not a part of the initial bond issue. Substantial voter opposition to sanitary sewers developed in Two and Three, and it is unknown whether the work can proceed there.

A call for bids on sewer construction in Area One is expected to be made soon.

In Area One bond bidding, the offers must be to buy all of the bonds, at eight per cent yearly or less.

Unless all bids are rejected, award will be made at the 9:30 a.m. Aug. 18 Madison County Board meeting on the basis of the lowest possible interest cost.

Bonds are to be issued subject to the unqualified approving legal opinion of Borge and Pitt, Chicago attorneys.

Financial advisors to the county are Wauterlek and Brown of Chicago.

Graham's closing downtown

The stock of Roy K. Graham in Graham's Business Products has been purchased by Raymond R. Smith and Charles H. Hasse, it was announced during the weekend.

Roy Graham and his wife, Zura, are retiring and the downtown office they operated in the 1900 block of Delmar Avenue is being closed by Smith and Hasse after a going-out-of-business sale this week. The latter two will continue to operate the main store at 3220 Nameoki Road.

The business was founded many years ago by Graham's uncle, the late W. Carl Graham. Its original site at Delmar and Niedringhaus Avenues is vacant and was last used as the headquarters for Governor Daniel Walker's unsuccessful re-election campaign this winter and spring.

"The small downtown outlet has not generated enough volume to justify its continued operation," Smith said.

"We pledge to continue serving the office supply customers that currently purchase their merchandise from downtown Graham's. There will be same-day service

In the course of a day's work, your pharmacist may make many phone calls. Most of them are made to a prescribing physician, upon the request for a refill. It is his professional duty to obtain consent before complying with that request, and he adheres to it meticulously.

This is one small instance in which pharmacists everywhere serve the best interests of your health.

Some SIUC pay cuts

The president of Southern Illinois University at Carbondale is continuing to stress his view that sharply reduced appropriations for SIUC salary increases this year represent "selective taxation by the executive branch of our state government."

Warren W. Brandt said raises for faculty and administrative personnel will average 2½ per cent. Pay hikes for most Civil Service staffers will average 4½ per cent. Certain others will have their pay reduced.

"Recent news releases have reported that again this year the governor has decided to avoid asking the people of the state to meet the needs for the support of higher education," Brandt said.

"Once again, those who provide the service have been selectively taxed by reducing the compensation for their services several per cent below those providing similar services in private education and in similar positions in business."

Brandt said budget cutbacks for salaries amount to "taxing a certain segment of the population—university employees—by in effect using their money—money they didn't get in raises—to avoid a tax increase for the entire population."

SIUC appropriations bill went to the governor with a request for $2.5 million to fund salary increases. That was cut to slightly over $1 million.

Brandt said the 2½ per cent pay increase package for faculty and administrative employees will include a 1 per cent across-the-board hike for everyone, and 1½ per cent to be allocated for merit increases. Merit raises will be distributed by vice-presidents according to various formulas.

The breakdown of Civil Service range employees' 4½ per cent average increase will be: 2 per cent across the board (but with higher percentage raises for lower paid employees), 1½ per cent to boost those lowest paid in comparison with other state university workers in the same job classifications, and 1 per cent for merit.

SIUC employees working under union contracts will have their salaries negotiated within the limits of 2½ per cent increases, Brandt said.

Some Civil Service workers paid at prevailing rates may have to be cut, Brandt said, because their pay hikes averaged 11 per cent last year and are expected to be negotiated at 10 per cent this year; SIUC has funds for increases of only 2½ per cent. Prevailing rate salaries are set by other state agencies outside of SIUC.

"A small reduction will be required in order to provide the necessary funding without taking it from other employees or programs," Brandt said. Most prevailing rate employees are in construction fields.

Graduate assistants' pay check will be boosted 2½ per cent, but wage rates for undergraduate student workers will not go up except to meet federal minimum wage guidelines.

Brandt said "this selective taxation by the executive branch of our state government demeans those who serve the state so well and deprives them of normal earned compensations. It is obvious that each of you will be watching the commitments of the candidates with regard to how they intend to meet the funding needs of higher education. If you share my concerns, I urge you to express them, especially at election time."

Raises normally go into effect on July 1 and show up in pay checks after that. Because the appropriation was signed late (July 13), increases for July and August pay periods will be paid in September, Brandt said.

Norfolk and Western stock split sought

Norfolk and Western Railway Company directors voted last week to propose a three-for-one stock split to shareholders and to increase the company's common stock dividend.

The board voted at New York City to raise the regular quarterly dividend on NW's common stock to $1.32 a share on the current (unsplit) shares from the previous rate of $1.25 a share, an increase of 5.6 per cent.

The higher dividend will be payable Sept. 10 to shareholders of record at the close of business Aug. 6.

If shareholders approve the proposed stock split, the dividend will become 44 cents a share quarterly beginning with dividends paid after the Sept. 10 payment.

Hearings by Illinois Democratic nominees

Democratic state candidates have announced details of their statewide hearings and press conferences this week on problems, issues and priorities of state government.

Michael J. Howlett, candidate for governor, said the other four candidates—Neil Hartigan, for lieutenant governor; Alan Dixon, for secretary of state; Cecil Partee, for attorney general; and Michael Bakalis, for comptroller—will take turns as chairmen of the four hearings today through Thursday.

Information gathered at the hearings will help the candidates formulate their positions and help the party develop a state platform, he related.

News notes

Madison County Republicans at a dinner Thursday night at the Lewis and Clark Restaurant to raise funds for the gubernatorial campaign of James Thompson announced that Dr. Robert Lynn of Alton will run for coroner of Madison County. No other replacements for write-in county nominees have been obtained.

Hy Raskin, an aide to Michael J. Howlett, Democratic governor nominee, said last week that Howlett is trailing James Thompson in Downstate Illinois, due to bitterness from the heated Democratic primary election campaign.

Michael Howlett is to be sued to refund his secretary of state duty due to an alleged conflict of interest, part-time employment by Sun Steel Co. His accuser, Marvin B. Burt, a Freeport attorney, was sued Thursday for alleged conflict involving an insurance firm while Burt was on Illinois House and Senate insurance committees.

Gov. Daniel Walker last week signed legislation which provides that members of the General Assembly receive monthly payments of their salary. The measure replaces a provision that called for legislators to be paid two years' salary in advance.

A Chicago doctor who wrote more than 7,200 prescriptions for addictive drugs in six months had his license suspended last week by the Illinois Department of Registration and Education. The department's complaint against Dr. Gerald McCage charged that he wrote prescriptions for morphine, amphetamines, barbiturates and other dangerous drugs from Jan. 1 to June 1, 1976, illegally and not for medical reasons. A formal complaint was filed against two pharmacies in the case.

Two physicians named in a dismissed malpractice suit in Chicago have sued an attorney and his client who brought the original case. They seek $65,000 damages, saying the suit could have jeopardized their licenses and insurance.

Grahams

today. "We will miss our friends downtown and then them for their many years of loyalty and patronage. We hope they will still remember Graham's even though we are not there."

Graham is retiring after more than 30 years with Graham's Book Store and the successor Graham's Business Products.

Born in Granite City in April 1907, he obtained his initial job in the downtown area as a stock boy at the Rosenberg Department Store, 19th and State Streets, the present location of Leader's.

He was ten years old at the time he was hired. He worked after school on weekdays and also on Saturdays, from 1917 to 1919.

He told the Press-Record that "I joined the Boy Scouts of Troop Two in 1919 at the age of 12. I went to summer camp at Camp Ranking near Ironton and Arcadia. Mo. The camp was started by W. R. Webb and W. Carl Graham."

"My parents died in 1920 and I lived in an orphanage for a few years. That is where I became a farmer — doing everything from milking and plowing to planting and harvesting."

"Everything was done with horses and mules. There were no tractors. Even the wheat threshing was done with a big steam-powered machine."

"At age 14, I was in charge of the produce for the orphanage. We started everything from green beans to strawberries. I also served as barber for the 120 children," Graham recalled.

"In 1924, I returned to Granite City to work at Graham's Book Store, which my uncle had started in 1922."

"We started a wholesale magazine and school supply business and delivered all over the Tri-State area."

At one time, we had our own book rental department and it was quite popular. Our hours at the store were from 7 a.m. to 9 p.m. six days a week and from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Sunday.

I went to high school from 1926 to 1 p.m. and graduated in 1926. I worked two years and then enrolled at the University of Illinois in Chicago, graduating with a bachelor of science degree in 1932.

"My first job after that was as a reporter on the East St. Journal where Mel Price, our present congressman, was a fellow reporter."

"My wife, Zura, and I were married on March 4, 1933, the day that Franklin D. Roosevelt was inaugurated as President for his first term."

"It was the heart of the depression years and on that particular Saturday all banks in the country were closed by proclamation, until they could prove themselves able to operate soundly; many never were able to reopen."

"Everything was cheap — but very few people had any money," Roy Graham noted. "I was the charter president of the Granite City Kiwanis Club, serving as such in 1941 and 1942. I was a charter member of the Eagle Scout organization of the Cahokia Mound Council, which was formed at Camp Rankin in 1926, and a member of Gamma Theta Phi honorary scholastic journal fraternity at the University of Illinois."

"I was a member of the American Material Science Society, and a finishing department production foreman at General Steel Industries for 11 years. I am missing and the cycle had a flat rear tire, he said."

Skits, dinner, awards feature Cub Pack meet

A series of brief skits, and plays, a picnic dinner and the presentation of awards featured a meeting of Cub Pack 17 of Marshall School at Wilson Park Shelter 4 Thursday evening.

Table centerpieces were vases of flowers made by the Cubs. Each boy made a patriotic picture placecard bearing his family's name. The Bicentennial theme was followed in costumes and decorations.

Den 1 held the opening flag ceremony. Cubmaster Elmer Stille presented Bobcat awards to Larry Beyer, Tim Tegel and Michael Loyet of Den 2. Official registration cards were given to the Cubs and adult members present.

Den 2, under the leadership of Darlene Andrews, presented a program of "Blackout" skits honoring America's 200th birthday. Short plays depicted Paul Revere, Benjamin Franklin, The Shot "Heard 'Round the World," the Signing of the Declaration of Independence, the Cracking of the Liberty Bell, Washington at Valley Forge, and others.

Den 1's program consisted of a catchy Den 1 yell. The boys also sang "America" under the leadership of Den Mother Dorothy Barylske. Chairman Ben Sanders introduced the games.

In the sack races, in which a parent and a Cub Scout ran as a team, the father-son team of Jim and James Clark were the grand winners.

Other games were played with the boys competing as teams. The closing ceremony consisted of all scouts standing shoulder to shoulder, reciting both the Cub Scout promise and the law of the pack.

Cubmaster Stille dismissed the meeting by asking the boys to clean up the picnic area before leaving. The next pack meeting will be in September when the evening program will include a contest on physical fitness.

Yes concert at MRF switched to Kiel

The Yes concert, scheduled for Wednesday at the Mississippi River Festival, has been cancelled, according to Festival Director Lyle Ward. "We had additional technical requirements that we could not comply with," said Ward. "We explained that we would be unable to meet those new requirements, especially since the St. Louis Symphony is scheduled to perform the next night, Thursday, Aug. 12, at the Festival site."

Yes has moved its scheduled concert to Kiel Auditorium in St. Louis, said Ward, where the special staging requirements can be met. The concert will be performed on the same night, and persons holding reserved tickets for the Yes concert at the MRF can exchange their tickets or get refunds at the SIUE box office until Aug. 4. "The new promoters have agreed to hold good seats for those people who bought reserved tent seats for the Yes concert at the MRF site," said Ward, "which should help minimize any inconvenience for those people who bought tickets for Yes in advance."

Ward also announced that the Linda Ronstadt concert, scheduled for Sunday, Aug. 8 has been moved to the following evening, Monday, Aug. 9.

Story hours, puppets, films at library children's room

By JEANETTE KAMPEN
GC Adult Services

Coming activities in the children's room at the Granite City Public Library will include story hours, puppet making, and films. Story hours are held on Tuesday mornings at 10, Thursday mornings at 9:30 and 10, and Friday mornings at 10.

A class in puppet making and puppet playing for children in the first grade and older, will begin Wednesday at 2 p.m.

Films to be shown in the children's room and at the YMCA during the next two weeks are as follows:

Aug. 5, 10 a.m., "Snoopy Come Home," Children's Room.
Aug. 5, 1 p.m., "Snoopy Come Home," Y.M.C.A. Rooms 1, 2, 3, 4.
Aug. 6, 10 a.m., "Snoopy Come Home," Children's Room.
Aug. 12, 1 p.m., "Happy Prince," Y.M.C.A. Rooms 1, 2, 3, 4.

The Dial-A-Story today through Wednesday, will be "Tikki Tikki Tembo," a Chinese tale retold by Arlene Mosel. The story is about two Chinese boys who, while playing near a well, fall into the well and are rescued. The book "Tikki Tikki Tembo" is available at the children's room.

GCPL children's librarian, Susan Hardin, asks that any children interested in writing reviews or drawing pictures, cartoons, or dioramas about books or records they like, contact her at the children's room.

Persons with questions or who need information on a particular topic may call the reference department at the public library. The telephone number is 876-7477. If the answer to a question or the information cannot be found at the library the request will be referred to the Lewis & Clark Library System headquarters.

New Reference Books: "Who's Who in Children's Books," by Margery Fisher, is an alphabetical listing of characters from the world of children's fiction. Many of the names are familiar—for example, Alice in Wonderland, Brer Rabbit, Winnie the Pooh, Tom Sawyer. Other names are half-forgotten; some may be almost unknown. The author describes the distinctive qualities of each character and offers pertinent critical comments. Approximately 400 illustrations accompany the text.

A new dog book in the collection is "The Pocket Encyclopedia of Dogs in Color" by Ivan Swedrup, containing illustrations of more than 184 breeds from around the world. Detailed entries describe the history of each breed, their physical characteristics, and the special traits that are desirable for show dogs of each breed.

In "Industrial Pollution," edited by N. Irving Sax, 23 contributing authors provide information on today's environmental concerns, from thermal pollution to siting for nuclear reactors.

Metric, reading workshops

University workshop courses in metric education and problems in the teaching of reading will be offered during August at West Junior High School in Belleville by Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

The metric education workshop is scheduled Aug. 9-13 from 1 to 4:30 p.m. each day. The course will explore the metric system and its applications in the elementary classroom.

Problems in the teaching of reading will be offered Aug. 16-20 from 1 to 4:30 p.m. daily. According to the SIUE department of elementary education, the course is designed to examine problems and provide suggestions on classroom management and working with the disabled child.

Each course offers two quarter hours of university credit. The instructor will be Dorothy Happel. No pre-registration is necessary.

Schools eye higher birthrate in Illinois, see enrollment gain

State Superintendent of Education Joseph M. Cronin said Thursday "the baby bust has bottomed out," raising prospects for an end to declining school enrollments in Illinois.

In a speech before the Illinois Association of Regional Superintendents of Schools, Dr. Cronin said, "During the 1975 school year, the total number of live births in Illinois has not only stabilized but gone up slightly."

The increase was about 250 over the previous year, he said. The number of women of childbearing age will increase over the next five years, demographers predict.

"Twenty-five years ago," according to the state school chief, "Illinois was undergoing a major revolution in education. Rural villages in remote parts of Cook and St. Clair Counties were beginning to fill up with housing subdivisions for veterans and others. Dozens of new schools were needed for the children born between 1945 and 1959."

Today, he said, statewide school enrollments are expected to shrink by 50,000 a year until 1980.

As a result, Dr. Cronin told the regional superintendents, hundreds of schools—some built as late as the 1950s—will be closed and fewer principals, superintendents and school systems will be needed.

With the slight increase in births last year, he said, "The outlook for the 1980s is improving. We must design our work for the next decade so that we use our resources wisely during a period of population change."

The Association of Regional Superintendents concluded its two-day meeting in Springfield on Friday.

D. A. Conway Marine lieutenant

Daniel A. Conway, son of Mr. and Mrs. Julius C. Conway, 2551 State St., has been promoted to first lieutenant, United States Marine Corps.

Lieutenant Colonel G. F. Rezek, commander of the 3rd Battalion, 5th Marine Regiment, pinned the silver bars of a Marine first lieutenant on Conway in ceremonies at Camp Margarita, Camp Pendleton, Calif., home of the Fifth Marines.

A 1970 graduate of Granite City High School, First Lieutenant Conway continued his education at the University of Mississippi where he received his B.A. in Science and was commissioned a Second Lieutenant in the United States Marine Corps.

After six months of officer training at Quantico, Va., Conway was designated an infantry officer and transferred to Camp Pendleton, Calif.

In July 1975 he was designated officer in charge of the battalion's competition infantry combat squad. Under his guidance the squad took first place in both regimental and division level competitions.

Lieutenant Conway currently is the battalion assistant operations officer and has been the acting battalion operations officer since May 24. During the past year he was graduated from schools ranging from landing force staff planning to the military arctic mountain-touring course given by the U. S. Army Northern Warfare Training Command in Alaska last November, and has participated in two combined arms training at Marine Corps Mountain Warfare Training Command in the Sierra Nevada mountains, and an amphibious operation on Montague Island, Alaska.

In addition to teaching evening history classes for the Army-Navy Academy, Lieutenant Conway is attending criminal justice classes at night at Palomar College in San Marcos, Calif., with plans to eventually enter law enforcement work. The Granite City Police Department is among the law enforcement agencies he is currently considering.

Clayton by District 9 business representatives and the Greater St. Louis Automotive Association. Neither side would release details of the offer presented to the union membership Sunday.

The association represents over 40 dealerships in Madison and St. Clair counties in Illinois and nearly 100 new car dealers in Missouri. Approximately 400 mechanics in this area are affected by the dispute.

Jack Schmacker, owner of Granite City Dodge, Inc., 1911 Madison Ave., where picketing began this morning, said, "In a deal like this, we'd like to get it settled as soon as we can and get back to work."

Most auto dealers are continuing operations in their sales areas, but repair shops are completely closed down.

Service operations are suspended at Mathews Chevrolet Co., Niedringhaus and Madison avenues, where six mechanics and parts men are out.

"Pickets arrived outside about 15 minutes ago," Chuck Flagg, manager of the Chevrolet dealership, said at 9:15 a.m. today.

"Evidently the people just didn't think the offer was enough — they voted by secret ballot after the bargaining committee recommended acceptance of the offer," said Joseph F. Cointin, directing business representative of the Union District 9.

Ed Hayward, executive vice-president of the Automotive Association, commented, "We made what we thought was a fair offer. In fact, we thought the offer was very generous and we're going to stick to it."

Hayward said the association membership will meet today to discuss its response to the contract rejection.

Cointin said last night that picketing would begin today, but added that plans had not yet been made on whether pickets would be sent to all of the dealerships involved.

Future bargaining sessions probably have not yet been set due to results of the union membership balloting, only being completed last evening, Schmacker speculated this morning.

TAKE WALLET, CASH
About $250 to $300 cash was stolen from the purse of Amanda Lawson, 236 Cardinal Ave., in the front room of her home, the victim discovered at 10:35 p.m. Sunday. Also stolen were a checkbook, her wallet, her driver's license and other papers.

More natural gas allocated

Illinois Power Company announced here Friday that natural gas for space heating purposes will be made available to 7,740 applicants on file as of July 28, 1976, in the various areas served by the company.

Of the space heating applicants, approximately 7,350 are in Priority 1, residential, and 190 are in Priority 2, small commercial.

C.W. Wells, vice president of the company, said at Decatur that the gas for this release has been made available from industrial customers who have been on limited firm rates and who have elected to be served under interruptible rates.

Fair Employment staff studies work charges

Recommendations to the Illinois Fair Employment Practices Commission as to what steps should be followed in an investigation of charges by a number of black operating engineers that contractors and unions are discriminating against blacks will be based on testimony given last week in a hearing at East St. Louis by the FEPC staff.

Mel F. Jordan, executive director of the FEPC, said that information received during the hearing will be analyzed to determine what further steps should be taken. He said the staff should be prepared to make recommendations to the commission in about two weeks.

Last week's hearing followed charges by a group of black operating engineers that contractors and unions fail to meet the requirement for 20 per cent black employees on construction jobs.

Van Clark of Edwardsville, president of the Black Concerned Operator, who are members of Operating Engineers Local 520 at Mitchell told the FEPC staff that unions and contractors are not attempting to meet the 20 per cent requirement in the six highway construction union crafts.

He charged blacks are sent out on the shorter jobs to show a greater number of referrals in computing the minority employment, while the blacks actually were not getting much work.

He was preceded in death by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John (Grace) Burns and three brothers, Edward, Emmett and Lawrence Burns.

Funeral arrangements are given in the obituary column.

The limited firm classification was established by the Illinois Commerce Commission to provide a more firm service for interruptible usage but at a higher cost.

All new customers for natural gas are served by Illinois Power Co. under a strict priority system on file with the commerce commission.

Wells emphasized that natural gas remains in short supply. Customers must have written applications on file at their local IP offices to avail themselves of any possible new releases of additional gas, he added.

Members of the protesting group picketed the offices of the Operating Engineers Local 520 at Mitchell last week, prior to the hearing.

Jordan said that the absence of information from the unions and contractors at the hearing makes it difficult to make a complete finding, which probably will result in a recommendation for an official investigation by the commission in which records could be subpoenaed and sworn testimony required.

Dr. officials estimated the firm rate at about $20,000, including the tools and equipment on the truck.

The Quad City area ended the month of July with a total of 1.41 inches of rain during the month. A normal average of 3.20 inches.

Shower early Saturday brought only .09 of an inch to this area, according to readings at the Chain of Rocks Locks where weather records are maintained for the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

Rain fell in the Quad Cities on six of the 31 days of July, the heaviest recorded on July 22 when precipitation registered .76 of an inch.

When the rain fell during the month was recorded during the last half of the month, totaling 1.15 of an inch. This included a .76 of an inch on July 22, .15 of an inch on July 23, .15 of an inch on July 24 and .09 of an inch on July 25.

During the first half of the month only .34 of an inch of rain was recorded — .14 of an inch on July 3 and .20 of an inch on July 8.

July precipitation brought to 10.60 inches the total fall in the area during the first seven months of the year, or 10.67 inches below normal of 21.27 inches for the same period.

Gets 3 to 9 years in strike arson

Robert A. Bailey, 29, Belleville, a former lineman for the R. Dron Electrical Co., Granite City, was sentenced Friday in St. Clair Circuit Court at Belleville to serve three to nine years in prison for arson in connection with the burning of a Dron truck during a strike in early February.

Bailey was being tried on the arson charge when the trial was interrupted and he entered his guilty plea.

A St. Clair County sheriff's deputy said he was dispatched to investigate a suspicious auto across the street from the Illinois Power Co. office in Belleville and while he was investigating the car, he heard an explosion within the power company yard, saw flames and saw a man running from the vicinity of the company toward the car being watched.

The man was stopped and the deputy alleged smelling gasoline on his clothing. Inside the yard, they found a Dron truck and nearby trailer ablaze. A gasoline can was found nearby. About five other Dron trucks nearby were endangered by the fire, but were not damaged.

Dr. officials estimated the firm rate at about $20,000, including the tools and equipment on the truck.

GC park commissioners adopt $740,207 budget

Granite City Park Board commissioners adopted a $740,207 budget Saturday morning to operate local park districts facilities in 1976-77.

The action was taken at a meeting recessed from July 26 and following a public hearing on the budget Friday night. No objections to the proposed budget were presented at the hearing, according to Board Secretary Frank Rea.

The new budget is reduced $14,325 from last year's appropriation total of $754,532, with a $30,952 decrease in the general corporate fund.

Increases were noted in other funds, including a $8,766.50 raise in the recreation fund, listed at $23,885; a $5,000 upswing in the Illinois Retirement Fund to $30,000; a $2,400 increase in liability insurance up to $1,400; and $100 more in audit expenses, up to $2,300.

The general corporate fund appropriation is $418,475, remains the same.

The amount allotted to bond payments on the Wilson Park ice rink will retire the 10-year total of $450,000, giving the park district full ownership of the facilities.

CHILD STRUCK BY CAR
Tina Williams, 8, daughter of Gerald Williams, 2417 Deane Ave., was admitted to St.

religious newspaper in the "godless city" of riverboatmen, traders and drifters.

In 1833, he was editor of the St. Louis Observer, organ of the Presbyterians in Illinois and Missouri. He also did some preaching and organized evangelistic revivals.

On $500 a year, he married and started a family. He had four years to live.

In the columns of his Observer he expressed unquestioning belief in God and Jesus Christ. Soon he wrote and also preached against slavery.

During the summer of 1835, Lovejoy was still in favor of gradual emancipation. Nevertheless, slaveholders and the rabble resented him, and threats were uttered.

As abolition excitement grew, supporters of the paper feared for the safety of the print shop. Lovejoy that morning barely escaped being tarred and feathered, and two other St. Louis papers, the Argus and the Commercial Bulletin, criticized him severely.

In October, prominent citizens urged him to "distrust" his own judgment and henceforth "pass over in silence everything connected with the subject of slavery."

They also asked him to "announce in your paper your intention so to do."

When his letter was found after his death, it was noted that Lovejoy had written on it the two weeks before he was murdered: "I did not yield. . . I have made eternal opposition to slavery, and, by the blessing of God, I will never go back."

In speeches he gave, Lovejoy took the position that "if you give ground a single inch, there is no stopping. . . I deem therefore, my duty to take my stand upon the Constitution."

His enemies were not impressed. By late May, 1838, after observing some boys stoning the corpse of a lynched Negro and commenting on the scene in his Observer, Lovejoy felt it was best to leave St. Louis.

He left for Alton, a Mississippi river city north of St. Louis, where his brother John had worked on the Telegraph.

Illinois seemed a good state to him, as several anti-slavery centers already flourished there. Perhaps he expected support for his newspaper and his opinions as he moved there.

He made the mistake of announcing his imminent departure. Ruffians severely damaged his shop and parts of the press into the Mississippi.

The rest of the press was shipped to Alton, where, arriving on Sunday, it stood on the wharf until dark. Then, Alton abolitionists shoved it into the river.

His first press was gone. His second was soon bought for him by a group of leading citizens, who wanted to impress him with their professed revulsion at the lawless act perpetrated by unfriendly Altonians.

This latter group was far from contrite. They made it clear to him that he was unwanted in Alton as he had been in St. Louis.

His anti-Catholic stance and abolitionist sympathies ran counter to the attitudes held by large numbers of workers who had flocked to Alton to work in construction and in packing houses. And his writings and preachings ruffled feathers among upper-class citizens as well.

Lovejoy's determination was unwavering. On July 1, 1837, he asked his readers to come "to the rescue. The voice of three millions of slaves calls upon you to come and unite the hands and hearts, and lead the oppressed go free!"

Two days later, at a public meeting "to suppress abolitionism in our town," five prominent citizens signed a resolution urging Lovejoy to desist from publishing incendiary doctrine and . . . to refrain from advocating "the misuse of modern abolitionism."

Lovejoy made no commitment to change his ways. On Aug. 21, 1837, he moved to Alton and, while moving toward Lovejoy's home, met the editor on his way to an apothecary's.

Shouts of "Tar and feather him" were not enacted because Lovejoy remained calm, asked the men to obtain his wife's medicine and take it to her (which they did), and then declared, "I am your friend, and you must do with me whatever God permits you to do."

His courage saved him from bodily harm, but that night his second press was destroyed by a band of 11 to 20 men. After throwing rocks through the windows of the shop and injuring one of the workers in the head, the band drove Lovejoy's men from the building.

The intruders then wrecked the press, type and other equipment. Thus, Lovejoy's second press, almost new, came to its end. It took four weeks to obtain the third.

In the meantime, Lovejoy had become involved in organizing an anti-slavery convention to be held at Alton on Oct. 26.

When the press arrived exactly a month after the destruction of the press, number two, it was taken directly to Gerry and Weller's warehouse, and then promptly seized by anti-abolitionists who dispatched it to the bottom of the Mississippi.

His last few weeks on earth were bitter ones for Lovejoy. The anti-slavery convention, attended by Edward Beecher, president of Illinois College and other notables, was cleverly dominated by anti-abolitionists.

As abolition excitement grew, supporters of the paper feared for the safety of the print shop. Lovejoy that morning barely escaped being tarred and feathered, and two other St. Louis papers, the Argus and the Commercial Bulletin, criticized him severely.

When his letter was found after his death, it was noted that Lovejoy had written on it the two weeks before he was murdered: "I did not yield. . . I have made eternal opposition to slavery, and, by the blessing of God, I will never go back."

In speeches he gave, Lovejoy took the position that "if you give ground a single inch, there is no stopping. . . I deem therefore, my duty to take my stand upon the Constitution."

His enemies were not impressed. By late May, 1838, after observing some boys stoning the corpse of a lynched Negro and commenting on the scene in his Observer, Lovejoy felt it was best to leave St. Louis.

He left for Alton, a Mississippi river city north of St. Louis, where his brother John had worked on the Telegraph.

Illinois seemed a good state to him, as several anti-slavery centers already flourished there. Perhaps he expected support for his newspaper and his opinions as he moved there.

He made the mistake of announcing his imminent departure. Ruffians severely damaged his shop and parts of the press into the Mississippi.

The rest of the press was shipped to Alton, where, arriving on Sunday, it stood on the wharf until dark. Then, Alton abolitionists shoved it into the river.

His first press was gone. His second was soon bought for him by a group of leading citizens, who wanted to impress him with their professed revulsion at the lawless act perpetrated by unfriendly Altonians.

This latter group was far from contrite. They made it clear to him that he was unwanted in Alton as he had been in St. Louis.

His anti-Catholic stance and abolitionist sympathies ran counter to the attitudes held by large numbers of workers who had flocked to Alton to work in construction and in packing houses. And his writings and preachings ruffled feathers among upper-class citizens as well.

Lovejoy's determination was unwavering. On July 1, 1837, he asked his readers to come "to the rescue. The voice of three millions of slaves calls upon you to come and unite the hands and hearts, and lead the oppressed go free!"

Two days later, at a public meeting "to suppress abolitionism in our town," five prominent citizens signed a resolution urging Lovejoy to desist from publishing incendiary doctrine and . . . to refrain from advocating "the misuse of modern abolitionism."

Lovejoy made no commitment to change his ways. On Aug. 21, 1837, he moved to Alton and, while moving toward Lovejoy's home, met the editor on his way to an apothecary's.

Shouts of "Tar and feather him" were not enacted because Lovejoy remained calm, asked the men to obtain his wife's medicine and take it to her (which they did), and then declared, "I am your friend, and you must do with me whatever God permits you to do."

His courage saved him from bodily harm, but that night his second press was destroyed by a band of 11 to 20 men. After throwing rocks through the windows of the shop and injuring one of the workers in the head, the band drove Lovejoy's men from the building.

The intruders then wrecked the press, type and other equipment. Thus, Lovejoy's second press, almost new, came to its end. It president. In 1973 he received the Industry Award from the Metropolitan Food Dealers of the Greater St. Louis Area. He also served as vice-president of the Quad-Cities Associated Retailers and on many committees of the Tri-Cities Chamber of Commerce.

As a member of the Madison Lions Club, he originated the Pancake Lunch and served as chairman for 20 years. After starting the Lion's weekly newspaper, the Lion's Roar, he served as its editor for five years. In 1957 Schermer received the Lion's Distinguished Service Award for editing the "Roar" and in 1965 was the "Lion of the Year" for accumulated Lion Activities.

Active in the Granite City Crippled Children's Society, he served as vice-president in 1975. He currently is president of OATH (Organization for the Advancement of the Handicapped) Governor Walker appointed him to the Quad-Cities Regional Port Authority in 1973 where he has served as treasurer since 1974.

Lovejoy was served as director of the board of the YMCA, on the Law & Order Committee of the Elks, on the board of directors of the Boy Scouts, and a three-year term as trustee of McKendree College, Lebanon, Ill.

He presently is on the board of trustees, Temple Israel, Creve Coeur, Mo. One of the founders of the Elks Club in Granite City, he served as its president since 1961. Schermer is a member of the Bi-State Transportation Committee and a member of the Mayor of Granite City Advisory Committee.

As a Master Mason, he is a member of Granite City Lodge 877, AF&AM; Scottish Rite, Valley of Southern Illinois, Alton Temple, East St. City, where he served on the executive board in 1972, and is a charter member and president of Alton's Oriental Band for four years after its founding in 1967. He presently is a director.

He was elected Elksranger at arms in 1972 of the Great Lakes Shrine Association of Oriental Bands, currently serving as Elksranger in local lodge. He was elected in Dayton, Ohio, in September.

He served on Alton's Budget Committee for a number of years and was architect of the plan for paying off the mortgage on the Scottish Rite building. He was named Shriner of the Year by the Tri-City Shrine Club in 1969.

The Shrine Club will be installed by the Egyptian Preceptory of the Legion of Honor this fall in ceremonies for which the time and place are to be announced later.

Mrs. Koh, Mrs. Henderson lead Lovejoy Library effort

Appointment of area representatives for the Lovejoy Library Development Fund Committee, which is seeking contributions in a fund drive in support of the university library, were announced during the meeting at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

At the same time, announcement was made of the expenditure of more than $17,000 from outside funds in behalf of the library.

Friends of Lovejoy Library President Raymond J. Spahn of Edwardsville announced the following library development fund drive appointments: Truman W. May, Edwardsville area; Mrs. Matilda Timmermann, Alton-Godfrey area; Mrs. Charles Kohl and Mrs. James M. Henderson, Granite City-Madison-Venice area; Ron L. Dunn, Belleville-East St. Louis area; Elmer Hart, Wood River-East Alton-Roxana-Hartford area; Mrs. John J. McCanna, Collinsville area; Gary K. Jones, Fairview Heights area; Mrs. Edwin Lowenstein, Highland area.

All are members of the Friends of Lovejoy Library, an organization of persons from both inside and outside the university who work for the advancement of the university library.

The Friends have announced a drive for contributions to the Lovejoy Library Development Fund as an "urgent measure to help alleviate the library's slowly-building crisis" of escalating book costs and decreased state funds.

The cost squeeze threatens the quality of the library and, therefore, they say, the quality of education at the university. John C. Abbott, library director, reported expenditure of $17,285 by the Friends for special library materials and equipment.

The money came from the Friends' membership dues, gifts and project funds. It was used for purchase of an electronic book security system, microfilm reader and printing equipment, a six-volume newspaper index spanning nearly 100 years, and a Lovejoy Press Article.

"These purchases are clear examples of the importance of outside funds for Lovejoy Library," Dr. Abbott said. "We have been able to purchase a book security system designed to cut book losses and to upgrade and replace worn out microfilm equipment."

The library otherwise had no funds for these urgent needs. "Private support has become essential for any university library in this day and age, and we trust that the area served by the university will respond with financial help in this critical time."

The Lovejoy Press artifact is a small iron clasp for an ink or form roller on a printing press. It is reliably believed to be from the newspaper press which Elijah P. Lovejoy defended to his death against a pro-slavery mob in Alton on the night of Nov. 7, 1837.

The Friends purchased the artifact with a grant from Burton C. Bernard, Granite City attorney and area historian who is a member of the Friends Advisory Board.

Bernard's grant for purchase of the artifact was made in honor of Irving Dillard of Collinsville, who, Bernard said, "has extensively educated the public to the importance of Elijah P. Lovejoy."

The clasp remained for many years in the estate of William Clark Breckinridge (1861-1927), St. Louis collector and historian from whom it was purchased through the assistance of Elizabeth Dunlap, St. Louis ransack dealer and friend of SUE's library.

Stevenson cites view on revenue sharing

U.S. Senator Adlai Stevenson III of Illinois who has been a strong opponent of congressional proposals to extend federal revenue sharing funding in its present form informed Granite City officials last week that he has decided to vote for an extension of the program, even though he still believes revenue sharing is a "bad fiscal policy."

In a letter addressed to City Clerk Robert Stevens in response to an appeal by Granite City officials for his support of an extended program, Sen. Stevenson remarked that the federal government "has no revenues to share—only a large deficit."

Youths build nature trail

Thirty-seven youths, 13 of them from the Quad-Cities, have been spending 20 hours a week this summer building a nature trail in the Lewis and Clark Park.

The youths, 14 through 18, were referred for employment to the Madison County Manpower Development program by the Madison County Probation Department.

A one-mile circle drive has been cleared of underbrush, the ground turned over and the youths are spreading wood-chips.

Brenda Ludwig has been serving as work adviser and Mrs. Shirley Wiemer is the director of the youth program.

However, there is no choice but to extend the program in some form, and I will support legislation to extend revenue sharing. I predicted in 1972 that once enacted this program would be with us forever.

"We are not in a position to repeal it now because the recession has made state and local governments even more dependent on the federal government."

"Revenue sharing is bad fiscal policy — both for the federal government and the recipient state and local governments. The federal government can ill-afford to finance general revenue sharing; it has no revenues to share, only a large deficit."

"As a former state treasurer and state representative I feel strongly about the dangers of one government spending the revenues collected by another."

"It is clearly inconsistent with the principle of accountability in government. Under general revenue sharing, the taxpayers cannot get a true accounting for their tax dollars."

"Conceptually, revenue sharing undermines the independence of state and local governments. Under this plan, the states and localities have become increasingly dependent upon the federal government for their funds. I have frequently heard from local officials that not only must revenue sharing be extended, but it must be increased to keep pace with escalating costs."

"As this dependency grows, states and localities have not been revitalized but, in fact, have become more vulnerable. As they look increasingly to the federal government for funds, rather than to their own initiative, they will become more impotent."

"I will examine the potential for amending the general revenue sharing bill, but I really do not think there is much that can be changed. The program continues to be structurally bad — the formula penalizes Illinois in comparison to other states; it finances and helps entrench the status quo in local government structure. It distributes funds with little regard to need or purpose. No amount of cosmetics is going to change such basic defects."

"I have long been convinced that few problems are solved by money alone; all revenue sharing offers is money. I hope that eventually revenue sharing can be phased out in favor of federal assistance more in keeping with sound fiscal practices, accountability and local need."

"I believe that federal aid to the states and localities can best be accomplished by reforming and consolidating existing grant-in-aid programs and eliminating the red tape as in the recently passed Community Development Act. But for now, I have no choice except to support an extension of general revenue sharing."

RANDALL L. DALE

Dale joins Scout staff

Randall Lee Dale, 25, of Hutchinson, Kan., has been hired as a district Scout executive for the Cahokia Mound Boy Scout Council, it was announced today by William Monical, Scout executive.

Dale has begun his new duties and basically will serve the Edwardsville-Collinsville area (Illinois District) in addition to assuming other council-wide responsibilities. The Cahokia Mound Council serves youth in the southern half of Madison county and all of Bond county, with offices at 2018 Delmar Ave., Granite City.

Dale has a Bachelor of Science degree in business with a minor in sociology. He has been in the Scout movement since age 8 when he was a Cub Scout, and has earned the Eagle Scout award. His hobbies are archery and camping.

Dale worked on the Camp Kanda summer camp staff in Kansas for several years as a field sports director. He is a Brotherhood member of the Order of the Arrow.

As an adult, Dale served as a volunteer of the organization and extension committee and the leadership training committee.

Dale is replacing Robert Hogan who has served as Illini District executive for the past three years.

Pencil, chess can be 'hazardous to health'

Even on a slow day, Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville is peopled with thousands of students, faculty and staff, to say nothing of a number of guests visiting the campus. Occasionally, some of the people collide either with each other or with inanimate objects, causing minor injuries.

Along with the usual notifications of abrasions, scratches, cuts and bruises, the second quarterly report from the safety coordinator's office at the university reveals accidents occurring under circumstances not considered common.

Bruises and sprains from people-equipment contact in the sports arena are expected. But what about the student who caught and jammed his right index finger in his pocket? The accident happened when the student, walking down the hall of the Science Laboratory Building between classes, played "quick-draw" with a passing friend.

The eagerness of students to flee from the classroom is well known, but they don't usually depart so fast that they sprain their ankles. Two students attending SIUE did.

One student sprained the right ankle when getting up after sitting cross-legged through class. Another suffered a sprain of the ankle when rising from a chair at the end of the class period.

Some of the student-object contact accidents occurred because students became engrossed in their studies.

One student bruised a finger while grabbing for a pencil in a biology class. Another mistook his own limb for that of a transplant when attempting to do a bark graft in the biology laboratory. The sharp encounter with the knife blade resulted in a lacerated thumb. During the quarter, one student was stung by a bee while working in the theater scene painting shop. Outdoor scenery painted by the SIUE theater majors is often so realistic, it is possible that the bee became confused. The insect may have considered the student as an invader of his territory, not the other way around.

The most unusual accident, reported to the safety coordinator's office during the quarter has to be the accident occurring during a spirited game of chess. The injured student was treated for a scratched middle finger of the left hand. A controversy between the pawns and a knight, perhaps?

New uniforms for M-V Rotary softball teams

Two young members of the M-V Rotary-sponsored softball teams, Carla Bradlee and Anita Walker, were guests at last week's meeting of the Madison-Venice Rotary Club at the Madison Recreation Center.

The M-V Rotary Club, in cooperation with the YMCA and the Madison County Housing Authority, sponsors six softball teams, two in Madison and four in Venice.

The young people were at the club to show the Rotarians the uniforms and caps purchased by the club for the teams. The shirts are marked "M-V Rotary" and the "Y" emblem. Each team has a different uniform color.

Larry Rudolf, general superintendent of steel production at Laclede Steel Co., spoke to the Rotarians on energy conservation. He was introduced by Rotarian George Buckles.

Civic center legislation deserves governor's signature

The civic center decision that has been facing Governor Daniel Walker has been inaccurately described by some as "an SUE basketball arena disguised as a civic center." We hope the decision has been in the process of making is not being influenced by such talk.

The only state university in Illinois lacking indoor athletic facilities, Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville has pledged to meet part of the time the Madison County cultural and performing arts center if it is built on land made available for $1 by SUE.

But it would be an entity of its own, governed by a board created by the state or county. The center would have full title to the land and building, and would chart its own course.

There would be a welcome tenant, helping significantly to assure the financial success of the project. But the school would not control the center, which would be the scene of a wide range of meetings, seminars and programs having little or no relationship to the university.

There has long been a need for such a civic center in this county, and it would be a catalyst for an upsurge of economic activity beneficial to taxing agencies and taxpayers.

The center twice approved by legislators deserves to be judged on its own merits, and they are numerous.

Circuit clerk office accounting control has deteriorated

Following is the text of comments on the office of the Madison County circuit clerk, contained in the 1976 county audit report of R. C. Scheffel and Company, certified public accountants:

"In previous audits we have made comments and recommendations with the objective of improving the internal accounting control. In our previous audit for the year ended Nov. 30, 1974, we did not make any recommendations because we felt there had been substantial improvement.

"During our audit for the year ended Nov. 30, 1975, we found that the internal accounting control in some areas had deteriorated. Most of the recommendations that follow have been mentioned in prior years' audits.

A. "Currently, control is not maintained over closed case files. In order to perform proper internal control, we recommend that only one person, who does not receive cash, have access to the closed case files.

B. "Daily receipts at Edwardsville are kept overnight in a safe with wheels. At least five people presently know the combination of the safe. We recommend that daily receipts be kept in a vault overnight with one person, who does not have access to any of the bank keys, responsible for collecting and distributing the locked deposit bags.

C. "Prenumbered receipts are being used only for bail bonds received directly from the defendant. We recommend that prenumbered receipts be made out for all cash receipts in all offices.

D. "The diverse operations of this office require consistently firm, routine financial supervision. An increased effort should be made to see that the normal financial procedures are followed consistently.

"The following recommendations do not necessarily apply to each division or area office.

"All bank accounts should be reconciled and cash in checking and savings accounts should be reconciled with the outstanding liabilities. A timely report should be sent each month to the controller's office.

2. "Checking account balances in excess of normal operating needs should be invested.

3. "Receipts of each day should be either deposited or turned in to central records with a financial report daily. The failure to do so resulted in an excess of approximately $2,800 of cash receipts for bail bonds over amounts of bank deposits, in one area.

"In another area, the cash count at the time of our examination included over $3,000 of receipts for fines and costs which should have previously been transmitted to magistrate - central records.

4. "Cash disbursements journals should be maintained.

5. "Checks should be stamped 'for deposit only' at the time of receipt."

Vice presidency called 'nothing, but may be everything'

Press-Record Washington Bureau—The one element of suspense in the Democratic National Convention was put to rest when Jimmy Carter announced Walter Mondale as his choice of a running mate. The Democrats went home determined to elect their ticket — candidates for president and vice president — in November.

That's how it's done by tradition in American politics. But in 1976 it is obvious that tradition can sell the vice presidency short as the second half of a national ticket.

Carter bowed to this new sense of importance surrounding the vice presidency by calling in potential candidates for interviews in advance of the convention. He sought to dispel the notion that his running mate would be chosen in bargaining among political kingmakers in a smoke-filled room.

But as tradition might have it.

Recent history has provided graphic examples of why the choice of vice presidential candidates should not be an exercise in political delving or the ticket-balancing. Three of the last six presidents elected in the United States did not serve out their terms.

Every time there has been a presidential crisis — and in one generation we have seen them occur with the serious illness, death and resignation of presidents — the nation debates the subject of reform in the vice presidential selection process. Yet the mechanism has remained unchanged.

Carter achieved the Democratic presidential nomination through the arduous test of state primaries, party conventions and caucuses. He started early, campaigned hard and corralled enough delegates to make the nomination a no-contest issue in New York.

However, the candidate who will run at his side — who becomes one of four people with the potential of being president in the next four years — was picked from the party ranks largely on the judgment of Carter and the acquiescence of convention delegates.

Both the Democrats in New York and the Republicans later in Kansas City will be nominating a vice president through a process that is less than perfect from the standpoint of grassroots democracy.

It may be expecting too much of either party that traditional considerations of balance be ignored in forming a national ticket, whether the aim is regional appeal or a liberal-conservative combination. At campaign time, priority inevitably goes to fielding a ticket that can win.

If this ticket, history tells us, may also contain a future president in the No. 2 spot, someone who must meet the same standards we expect of the one at the top.

This is a good time to recall — and put in its proper place — the famous quotation of John Nance Garner, who said the vice presidency "isn't worth a pitcher of warm spit." He may have felt that way, spending eight years in the job without much to do, but history provides ample rebuttals of his remark.

John Adams, the first vice president, had a much better grasp of what the office means.

"In this I am nothing, but I may be everything," he said. One of the presidential candidates nominated at the conventions this summer could be everything indeed as the future unfolds.

The parties must make this nomination something more than a genuflection to the demands of a balanced ticket.

Flows in schools' complex

By SUSAN SACHS
SPRINGFIELD — Over the next few months, as the legislative session opens, you will be reading a lot about the state school aid formula.

That's because it doesn't work.

And what critics say are flaws in the way money flows out to schools show up clearly in some districts' financial picture.

The formula, also called the resource equalizer, was designed to assure a youngster from a rich community the same financial backing as a child from a comparatively poor community.

Before it was passed and signed in 1973, several studies had concluded funding schools through property taxes tended to shortchange some students.

A community that lacks industry or expensive homes, for example, can raise only a limited amount of revenue no matter how heavily it taxes its homes.

The problem is its low assessed valuation.

The formula attempts to correct this by giving money to a district that is willing to tax itself but is too property-poor to get much return on that tax. And any two districts taxing at the same rate should get the same amount of money from local and state sources for each student, according to the formula.

Three factors affect the formula: the number of students, the assessed value of the district and the average daily attendance over a six-month period; the local tax rate; and the wealth of the district, measured in terms of the value of its taxable property.

The past three years have brought significant changes in these three factors in many districts.

As a district gets richer in terms of its assessed valuation it loses state aid. It's a double whammy when enrollment drops at the same time.

The formula guarantees a certain assessed valuation per pupil. If the district's per pupil assessed valuation amounts to just $20,000, for example, the state will supply the remaining $22,000.

That's the formula: the state contribution toward the guaranteed assessed valuation per pupil, multiplied by the number of students and by the tax rate. The product is the state grant.

While the forces that influence the formula have changed, there also is criticism the formula itself favors some districts over others.

A major complaint is over the maximum tax rates set by the formula. If a school district taxes itself at the ceiling it will receive the maximum grant of $1,260 per pupil in combined state and local money. A lower rate brings in less state aid.

High school districts must have operating tax rates of $1.05 per $100 of assessed valuation to get the maximum benefits under the formula.

Most of them get the maximum because these districts can impose rates of up to $1.27 without voter approval. Grade school districts must have an operating tax rate of $1.85 to participate fully and are allowed to impose a $1.27 rate without referendum.

But until districts have the hardest time using the formula to its greatest potential.

These districts must have a tax rate of $3 before they can get the top $1,260 per student.

Without a referendum, though, until districts can impose only a $2.07 operating tax rate — 92 cents less than normal.

Several bills now under consideration would lower the ceiling for elementary and high school districts, but until districts can tax without a referendum.

On the other end of the scale is the suggestion to eliminate the provision that forces a district to "roll back" its tax rate if it is above the formula-set ceiling.

If the local rates exceed the maximum they would not be used to calculate state aid but these districts, mostly wealthy suburbs near Chicago, could obtain more local revenue.

The impact of enrollment drops would be lessened if the formula were amended to average the past three years' enrollment.

School administrators say as enrollments decline, the costs of educating fewer students don't decline proportionately.

Stresses seniority rights of workers

To the Editor:

I would like to make a comment on your article in Thursday's paper about picketing of Local 520, Operating Engineers.

First of all, I am a white operating engineer and I feel that I am being discriminated against. The blacks are complaining that they've been in Local 520 for three to four years, and they have only worked a total of a couple of hours, and I haven't worked since November 1975, and I also have a family to feed. So, why should someone with less seniority go to work before I do?

I feel they should have to wait for their seniority number to come up, before going out on a job, just like everyone else does.

We also pay union dues whether we work or not.

What kind of government do we have that will take the taxes of hard-working people and turn them over to minority groups who take your job away from you? How many jobs could I get just by putting up a picket?

Blacks are always demanding equal rights. Where are the rights of the white man? Have we doomed ourselves into giving in, to every wish?

Whatever happened to qualification, education and seniority? I had to have it. Why don't they? How many jobs are given to blacks just because they are black?

I'm not a racist, in no way. But no one should be allowed to take another man's job away from him. If the minority groups want better jobs, that's fine, but let them wait and work for them the way I had to.

If they can't do that, they don't deserve them. I've waited a long time to build up my seniority, and to have someone off the street come in and go ahead of me is outrageous.

It's a shame that a man has to fight for his future just because another man puts up a picket. The worst shame of it all is that our government allows it.

Which union will be next to forfeit seniority rights?

Animal protective shelter needed

To the Editor:

Undoubtedly, some of your readers are by now aware of the serious problem that the Animal Protective Association faces. That is, that the membership of the shelter must be moved from the present location at the Granite City Army Depot within a short time.

This means, of course, that unless they can find a suitable building in which to relocate, or obtain enough funds through public donations to erect a new shelter somewhere, they will be forced to have the many dogs and cats at the shelter destroyed.

To those of your readers who love animals, I make this appeal: The APA needs your help desperately and it needs it now.

In order to continue to function and provide humane care and shelter to homeless, lost or abused animals, they must have financial aid through donations or, soon, there will be no shelter.

Readers, if you have a pet and if you love it, please think about this. There, but for the grace of God, could be your own beloved animal, waiting to be destroyed because no one cared enough to help.

Given more time, all of those animals now at the shelter would probably be adopted, but time is running out and there is no more money.

How would you feel if your own pet were lost? I'm sure you'd be extremely grateful to find it safe and kindly cared for by the compassionate volunteers at the shelter.

I know I would be if it were my pet and that is why I am so grateful that we have the APA. Hardly a day ever passes that they do not take in a lost, frightened cat or dog — not to mention those animals that have been so badly abused that they are often near death when somebody finds them and brings them in.

I know that I, for one, do not want to see the shelter have to end because of a lack of funds and nowhere to go.

Friends, we must not sit back and rely on someone else to do something, because the APA needs support from all of us.

Even a little help is better than none, so please give what you can.

For the sake of each of those animals now facing death and for the dedicated volunteers who have worked so hard to save them, won't all join me in helping them to obtain a new shelter and show them that the animal lovers who read this do care?

Please, let's not force them to close their doors forever because we, the public, turned a deaf ear to their plea for help. Donations may be sent to: APA, P.O. Box 131, Granite City, Ill. 62040.

Training program viewed as helpful

To the Editor:

Regarding the EMT Ambulance Service, we the people of the Quad-City area are thankful to them for such an efficient service.

Their ambulance service is operated on an individual basis. We have seen these men in action and are pleased with the response and care they have been giving.

The medical training has paid off and they always have two emergency medical technicians in the ambulance at all times.

These men are concerned about saving our lives and giving us the best care possible.

Multiple choice on school tax rate

To the Editor:

A Staunton school tax vote is the latest of a series of votes in this area where taxpayers have been given a choice between a substantially higher tax or no change. This presents a dilemma to those voters who would prefer a compromise solution and don't like having to choose between educational affluence and educational bankruptcy.

Often, school boards have aggravated the problem by stubbornly coming back to the voters again and again for the same big raise, rather than lowering their sights and asking for a lesser increase that would enable them to get by.

We need a change in state law on school tax votes, so that when a school board asks for more than, say, a 10 per cent hike in property taxes, then voters should also be allowed to vote for a compromise raise.

If none of the three choices won an absolute majority, then the middle choice would go into effect, since both of the other groups of voters would presumably prefer it as a second choice.

"All or nothing at all" may be a fine romantic novel; but it's not very good tax policy.

Boost pensions faster than inflation

To the Editor:

Regarding "Federal employee pension revision deserves high priority" on July 22, it was with some concern that I read the editorial from your Washington bureau advocating repeal of the one per cent add-on to cost-of-living raises for military and federal employees' retired pay.

It is ironic to note the trend during this, our Bicentennial year, to render all types of assistance to our enemies, former enemies and those who deserted this country in its time of need — while ignoring our friends' needs and allowing the rights and benefits of our loyal veterans and government employees to deteriorate.

The costs and projected costs mentioned in the article are for shock value only, since there is no way of projecting future costs.

In figuring costs, what about the amount returned to the government in the form of income tax? You see, we are taxpayers, too.

I suggest we should all discourage any legislation tending to erode the earned rights of our citizens.

Remember the little Dutch boy who placed his finger in the dike and saved his country.

Five-year licenses stalled

By AL MANNING
SPRINGFIELD — What happened to the plan to have five-year license plates? That's the big mystery of this session of the General Assembly.

Michael Howlett, the incumbent secretary of state and the Democratic nominee for governor, has been on record since last year in favor of the idea.

He said the state could save $8 million annually by switching from annual plates to five-year plates for automobiles.

Sen. William Harris, the Republican candidate for secretary of state, strongly endorsed the proposal and Treasurer Alan Dixon, the Democratic candidate, indicated he favored it, too.

The bill passed the House. But in the Senate, the measure stalled in the Transportation Committee.

When the chairman of the committee, Sen. Charles Shaw, D-Chicago, took off for Japan and parts unknown instead of tending to legislative business, the Democrats took the bill away from him and gave it to Sen. Dan Wooten, D-Rock Island, to sponsor.

Republicans quickly embarrassed the Democrats by their handling of the bill. In one of the few interesting political debates of importance during the session, the Republicans charged the Democrats with violating the rules regarding sponsorship and with ramming the bill through to passage stage without a hearing.

Although the bill made it that far, it was clear that unidentified sources did not want the measure passed.

The Chicago Democrats handed the hatchet to Sen. Lekoy Lemke, who introduced an amendment for proof of liability insurance for drivers. The amendment passed, thus killing the bill for now.

If Howlett wanted the measure as badly as his sides say, then he's no more effective than Gov. Dan Walker in passing a legislative program.

But the real question is who opposed the five-year plan and why.

Dr. Mark Lepper, who resigned in April as director of the Comprehensive Health Care Planning Agency, has been retained by the Department of Public Health as a consultant.

He receives $50 per hour for a maximum of $2,000 per month, according to the terms of his contract.

The Health Facilities Planning Board, Sen. Jack Knuepfer, chairman, requested that the department director, Dr. Joyce Lashof, retain Lepper.

Lepper resigned from state government to take a position with Rush Presbyterian-St. Luke's Medical School in Chicago. He is to serve on a month-to-month basis on a variety of projects which he administered while in his state position.

Bicentennial brings back memories

To the Editor:

We have read the Bicentennial issues of the Press-Record from front to back. We found many names of people we remembered and places and incidents we knew about long ago.

I even saw an article about a birthday party for the son of a fellow I went out with a few times, including the night I graduated from high school. I did not know Estelle Brown, the subject of a long article, but I did go to school with her two sisters, Columbia and Cornelia.

The old "50-brick" home looked familiar, as did Broadway in Venice. My son remembers walking along there to go to kindergarten. I remember the old Odd Fellows Hall on Nameoki Road. The remains of the Kinderhook School were still on the grounds of Emerson School when I first started there.

Republicans rightly embarrassed the Democrats by their handling of the bill. In one of the few interesting

AUDIO ALARM. An audio alarm that can be heard for three blocks has been installed at the home of Mrs. Clara Lux, lower left. Michael Macek, burglar alarm specialist for the City of Madison, pointing to the siren, explains the details of how it works Friday to Mrs. Lux and Madison Mayor Mike Sasyk. The alarm at the Lux home is the first to be installed under a city program that will provide such systems for all senior citizens who want them. They will be installed and maintained without charge.

MONITORING ALARMS. The first phase of the Madison burglar alarm program was to install silent alarms in the city's business places, schools and churches. William Weidner, chief desk clerk for the Madison Police, is seen monitoring the system Friday. When a business has a burglary, or the system is set off by secret "panic" buttons during the day in the event of a robbery, a light flashes and a buzzer sounds on the control panels which contain the name and location of the alarm for the immediate dispatching of a police car. There currently are 120 establishments in the city with the alarm system.

Flood insurance meets scheduled this week

Two public meetings are to be held this week to acquaint Quad-City officials and residents with details of a flood insurance study completed by federal agencies for the purpose of determining the availability and rates of flood insurance in this area.

The first public meeting will be held at 2 p.m. Wednesday in the Granite City council chambers at the city hall. The second will be held at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the council chambers of the Venice city hall.

Romulus Dorsey, flood insurance specialist of the regional office of the housing and Urban Development Agency, a representative of the Illinois Division of Water Resources and a representative of the U. S. Corps of Engineers are to attend the meeting to explain the study, according to word received by Granite City Mayor Paul Schuler.

The study notes that enactment of flood plains management legislation will be required of local municipal agencies as part of the new program.

Bus fund hearings

The Bi-State Development Agency has scheduled two public hearings regarding capital grant applications to the Urban Mass Transportation Administration for $20.4 million.

The hearings will be held Monday, Aug. 16, at the St. Clair County Government Center, Room B-564, No. 10 Public Square, Belleville, beginning at 9 a.m.; and Tuesday, Aug. 17 at the St. Louis County Government Center, Council Chamber, 7900 Forsyth Blvd., Clayton, beginning at 7 p.m.

The applications total $20,474,054, with 80 per cent of the project cost being requested under Section 3 ($12,811,107) and Section 5 ($7,662,947) of the Urban Mass Transportation Assistance Act of 1974.

The local-level matching share of $4,094,811 will be provided from capital allocations of the City of St. Louis and St. Louis County in appropriations of transportation sales tax receipts and from a State of Illinois capital grant ($756,273). The projects, to be used throughout the Bi-State Transit System service area, include purchase of 194 new buses, 14 of which will be 19-passenger vans especially designed for the elderly and handicapped; 208 two-way radios; 128 registering fareboxes; refurbishing of 280 buses; spare assemblies; nine bus washers and related equipment; 250 new passenger shelters; 10 supervisor vehicles; 16,000 new bus stop signs; and office equipment.

The hearings, which will be held in accordance with requirements of the Urban Mass Transportation Act of 1964, as amended, are intended to afford an opportunity for interested persons or representatives of agencies to submit recommendations.

Judy Collins, Dirt Band, Music of 40's on River Fest program

The Cleveland Orchestra String Quartet, Judy Collins, the Nitty Gritty Dirt Band, two fine arts films, and a night of the music of the 40's are on tap this week at the Mississippi River Festival on the campus of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

The Trinidad Folk Festival also is concluding its two-day tour here on the campus from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. today.

The festival also has announced two schedule changes. The Aug. 11 concert by Yee has been removed from the MRF agenda and will be held at Kiel Auditorium, and the Linda Ronstadt concert has been changed from Sunday, Aug. 8, to Monday, Aug. 9.

The Trinidad Folk Life Festival, in residence yesterday and today is being presented as part of the Smithsonian-sponsored Bicentennial on-tour program presenting folk artists from 33 nations to audiences around the United States.

The performers at the MRF, K. D. Rankin on state council

Governor Dan Walker has appointed K. Duane Rankin a member of the Illinois Advisory Council on Adult, Vocational and Technical Education.

Rankin is director of the Venice-Lincoln Technical Center. He has received BS in Industrial Education from Eastern Illinois in 1956 and a MS in secondary industrial education from Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville in 1966.

Rankin is the immediate past president of Public Adult and Continuing Educators Association of Illinois.

He resides at 511 Washington Ave., Venice.

10-cent swim fee at Wilson Aug. 7

Residents of the Granite City Park District will be able to swim at Wilson Park from 1 to 6 p.m. on Saturday, Aug. 7, for the admission fee of ten cents, according to Harold Brown, park superintendent.

Non-residents may take advantage of the all-day session at a cost of 25 cents, Brown added.

from Trinidad and Tobago, are performing steel band music and the Shango religious ritual among other native dances and music.

The artists are from the village of Morne Diabolo, and were this year's winner of the Prime Minister's Best Village Trophy Competition, an 11-year-old competition designed to select the village that best exemplifies all aspects of community life while preserving and promoting folk culture.

The folk artists are performing today on the main campus mall at SIUE from 1-4 p.m.

Tonight, the Cleveland Orchestra String Quartet will perform compositions by Stravinsky, Brahms, and Schubert in the Meridian Hall of the campus University Center. The quartet, formed by the four principal string musicians of the Cleveland Orchestra, is a well-traveled chamber ensemble known for its impeccable articulation.

Daniel Majeske is on violin for the quartet, as is Bernhard Goldschmidt, Abraham Skernick is on viola, and Stephen Geber is on cello. They will be performing "Three Pieces for String Quartet" by Stravinsky, "String Quartet in B-flat major, Opus 67," by Brahms, and "String Quartet in G major, Opus 161," by Schubert. The concert begins at 8:30 p.m.

Judy Collins, performing tomorrow at 8:30 p.m., is both one of the country's top folk singers and an award-winning filmmaker. In a career that has gone from early folk singing to political activism to movie-making to writing her own music, Judy Collins has continually excelled as an entertainer. Her last album, "Judith," earned her a sixth gold record and included the Jimmy Webb song, "The Moon Is A Harsh Mistress," as well as her own "A Song For The Duke," "Born To The Breed," and others. Her "Antonia: A Portrait Of The Woman," was named one of the year's ten best by Time Magazine and was nominated for an Oscar in 1974 as the best documentary.

On Wednesday, the Nitty Gritty Dirt Band returns to the Festival, with special guest artist Valdy. The Dirt Band, following the success of the group's latest album, "Symphonies Dream," remains one of the top groups in the country-rock field. The success of the "Will The Circle Be Unbroken" album in the early 70's moved the group to the top of the field, and cuts like "Rippling Waters" and "Dream" from the latest album have helped the Dirt Band maintain that status.

"Women In Love" and "The Conformist," the two films slated for the Director's "Perspective" segment of the Festival's Film Series, will be shown in the University Center's Meridian Hall on Thursday. "Women In Love," the classic D. H. Lawrence novel, is a 1970 film directed by Ken Russell, who directed such recent hits as "Tommy" and "Listonmania." Bernardo Bertolucci's "The Conformist" is another 1970 movie, this one a narration of a young young fascist assassin in the 1930's. Bertolucci more recently directed "Last Tango in Paris."

On Friday, the Festival will have a night of the music of the 40's, with Paula Kelley and the Modernaires, Cab Calloway, and Ray McKinley and the Orchestra. The Big Band sound will come alive under the Festival tent as McKinley and the Orchestra perform such well-remembered hits as "Moonlight Serenade," "Chattanooga Choo-Choo," "Juke Box Saturday Night," and many more.

Festival Director Lyle Ward reminded festival-goers that under a new policy no bottles or cans are allowed at the Festival site.

THE DIRT BAND, better known as the Nitty Gritty Dirt Band, will return to the Mississippi River Festival Wednesday evening with special guest artist Valdy. The group has been among the top country-rock groups in the nation since the early 1970s.
